MORE IGNORANT BANK DIRECTORS. TESTIMONY FOR THE PROSECUTION NOT YET COM-

PLETED—MR. SCRIBA'S EXAMINATION.

The eighth day of the trial of James D. Fish for missoplying the funds of the Marine National Bank closed yesterday with the testimony for the prescution not completed. Judge Benedict and the jury heard the testimony of two or three other directors of the bank, who did not know various facts regarding the use of the funds of the bank which have been brought out in the evidence. First Henry Barrow, the director whose cross-examination was begun on Thursday, was further questioned by Mr. Clarke. He had two sons employed in the bank—one as assistant to the cashier and the other as a messenger. He had assisted to examine the bank in Apri, 1884, a few days before the failure, but had not learned anything about the unsecured loans.

examine the bank in Apri, 1884, a few days before the failure, but had not learned anything about the unsecured loans.

O. D. Baldwin, president of the Fourith National Bank, testified, in answer to questions by District-Attorney Root, that on the morning of May 6 he went to the Clearing House, of which he was one of the committee, and found there Mr. Camp, the manager, and Mr. Fish, the president of the Marine Bank. Mr. Camp reported that Mr. Fish had just told him that the Marine Bank would be a debtor bank at the Clearing House and that he feared it would be impossible to make the balance good. Mr. Camp figured up and found that the bank was a debtor to the amount of about $545,000. The witness said to Mr. Fish: "You have plenty of securities, I suppose? I will lend you enough to make the balance good if you will send me up a sufficient amount of securities." Mr. Fish soon after sent up $210,000 in money and a load of securities, of which the witness took enough to secure the loan of nis bank and returned the balance to Mr. Fish. In answer to questions by Mr. Ciarke, the witness told how the balances are made up at the Clearing House Each bank sends two clerks each morning to the rooms of the Clearing House before 10 o'clock. Desks are arranged in a circle and one of the two representatives of a bank stands facing one of the desks is note of the circle, while the the other stands opposite him on the outside of the circle passes to one side and gives to the clerk at the next dask on the inside of the circle a package supposed to contain checks on one bank paid by the other. The amounts in figures are placed on the outside of the packages and are entered by the clerks who stand inside of the circle. The amounts are added up and computations made which show which of the banks owe the others.

Charles J. Newman, of the County Clerk's effice, beneated by the clerk as a supposed to made which show which of the banks owe the others.

Charles J. Newman, of the County Clerk's effice, brought over the original assignment made by Grant & Ward and filed on May 8, 1884. It was admitted in evidence, and Assistant Cashier Daboli identified the signatures of General Grant and his son, Mr. Fish and Mr. Ward. Mr. Daboll also answered fied the signatures of General Grant and his son, Mr. Fish and Mr. Ward. Mr. Daboll also answered some inquiries about payments that were made on loans of Grant & Ward in October, 1883. In one case a payment of $9,300 was made in addition to the principal of the loan. The interest on the loan at 6 per cent was only about $1,000. The balance was credited, by dire tion of Mr. Fish, to an ac count called "Other Real Estate," and especially to the credit a piece of property which the bank had bought in Brooklyn. There were other such payments in excess of legal interest, amounting in a short time to $35,000 on the real estate account, and $10,000 on the surpins fund account.

Captain Ambrose Snow, the vice-president and one of the directors of the Marine Bank, was asked the same questions as the other directors, and was equally ignorant of the way in which the unsecured loans to Grant & Ward were made.

Jo n F. Wilson, one of the directors, who acted as secretary of the Board, answered "I do not know" and "I do not recollect" to most of the questions put to him. He had known Mr. Fish for forty-five years, and had the same confidence as the other directors in the president. He was in the habit of frequently reading the loan tickets to the Board at their meetings. He could not remember reading the loan tickets which are in evidence in the trial. Sometimes, he said, Mr. Fish would stop him as he began to read at ticket by saving that the loan had been paid. Mr. Clarke asked:

Did you read at any meeting this loan ticket of $160,000 to the account of Grant & Ward paid. Mr. Clarke asked:

Did you read at any meeting this loan ticket of $160,000 to the account of Grant & Ward!

The witness—I am sure I did not read that.

Mr. Clarke—How do you know!

The witness—I know that if I had read that there would have been immediately a cry raised by the directors at lending such an amount to Grant & Ward. Mr. Wilson had considered the firm of Grant &

Mr. Wilson had considered the firm of Grant & Ward as an extremely rice one and supposed that it always had a large credit balance. The witness superintended the work on the Booth Theatre property before the fatture.

Bank Examiner Augustus M. Scriba testified that he took possession of the Marine Bank on May 6, at 1 p. m., and retained possession until Receiver Johason was appointed about a week af cr. He examined the loan-book and the securities, and put a mark opposite the record of the securities, and put a mark opposite the record of the securities in the loan-book when he found the collaterals. He marked "missing" or "no collaterals" opposite the record of the loans on the account of Grant & Ward for which there were no securities.

Mr. Roof—How did you conduct this examination i Mr. Root.—How did you conduct this examination †
The witness—I first examined the assets to see what was left.

Mr. Root—What did you find ?

Mr. Clarke—I object, as this is immaterial.

Mr. Root—We have shown that the defendant had loaned $1,373,000 of the bank's money to his own firm, $400,000 of it without any security, and that after that he allows his firm to take $800,000 more. Now I want he allows his was text in the bank. what was left in the bank. Benedict—I don't think " what was left " is im-

Mr. Root-Perhaps that is true. What was left was of important-it was a small matter.

The witness did not give the particulars of his vamination and his testimony was finished before the close of the court.

The trial will be resumed on Monday.

THE PROPOSED PARK LEGISLATION. The committee engaged in getting up the meeting to be held in Chickering Hali on Monday evening to advocate the bili partly repealing the park legislation of last year net yesterday in the Mayor's office and agreed on the following for speakers: I needere koosevelt, Stephen A. Walker, Simon Stern, Abram S. Hewitt, E. Ellery Anderson and Lewis H. May. It is probable that Le Grand B. Cemeron will be chosen chairman. The following can was agreed upon:

The understrued citizens and taxpayers units in a call

Can was agreed upon:

The undersigned clitzens and taxpayers unite in a call for a mass meeting to be held at an early date, advocating the legislation proposed by Mayor Grace concerning the parks in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards and in the County of Westchester, and to appoint a committee to present a memorial to the Legislature, showing the following principal reasons why the Act of 1884, which provided for the taking of these parks, should be smended:

following principal reasons why the Act of 1884, which provided for the taking of these parks, should be amended:

First.—Because the effect of the Constitutional Amendment, adopted at the late election, concerning municipal indebtedness, is to cast the expense of these parks, variously estimated at from eight to twently millions of dollars, upon the taxpayers in a single year.

Second.—Because the property benefited is not compelled to pay assessments for the imprevements or a last proportion of the expense, as was required by law in the cases of Central, Riverside, Morningside and other parks in the City of New-York. As the expense is to be met by general taxation, the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards, the tax valuations of which for 1885 are $32,390,104, while for the rest of the city they are $1,145,056,352, will pay only about one-thirty-sixth part of the whole expense, although receiving all the benefits, except those which accrue to the County of Westchester, which pays nothing.

Third.—Because, of the 3,890 acres proposed to be taken by these parks, the Pelham Bay Park and Parkway, containing about 1,890 acres, lie wholly out of the city limits, and taxes thereon will have to be paid by the City of New-York to the County of Westchester upon an assessed vacuation fixed by the Board of Supervisors of that county, and based upon enormously increased prices which the city will doubtless have to pay for the land. No benefit, besides, will alcerae to the city by the increase of the value of the surrounding property, and the expense of property policing, lighting and maintaining this large park and parkway will always be a burthen to us as taxpayers.

We favor the proposed legislation because, if it becomes enacted into a law, the Westchester parks will be eliminated, the property benefited will pay a just proportion of the expense, and the parks in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards will be taken from year to year as necessity will require, and will not cause a greater-burden upon the taxpayers than

MULDOON ARRESTED IN A THEATRE.

MULDOON ARRESTED IN A THEATRE.

William Muldoen, ex-policeman and Greeco-Roman wrestler, who is now appearing with a minstrel company as a "statue," was the centre of interest in the City Hall Police Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, where he appeared in answer to a warant issued for his arrest. It was secured by Thomas F. Rochford, doorkeeper at the Park Theatre, Brooklyn, who charged Muldoon with assault. The circumstances as set forth in the complaint were that on Wednesday evening Muldoon entered the lobby of the theatre as the audience was going out at 11 p.m. Rochford went up to him and asked him to move out of the lobby and let the people pass. Instead of moving the wrestler asked what authority the doorkeeper had and Rochford showed his special officer's shield and said he was acting under the orders of Colonel Sinn. Thereupon Muldoon struck him in the face with his hand and said: "I will do as I please," refusing to go out. Muldoon denied that he struck Rochford. He said he had gone to the theatre to meet his wife, after the performance, to which she had gone with a woman friend, and he was waiting for her when Rochford asked him to move. As he did not go quickly enough he was pushed. The lawyers in the case tried to arrange it, but did not succeed. Muldoon pleaded not guitty and the hearing was adjourned. The wrestler was accompanied in court by Charles Mitchell, the English prize-fighter, whose diamond pin attracted much attention.

RUMORS OF STEERAGE RATE PEACE. Rumors were current in shipping circles yesterday to the effect that the contending lines in the Continental Steamship Conference had extended the clive branch to each other, and that there was a disposition to reorganize the contenence and to restore the rates for steerage passengers to $20. Inquiry at the Hamburg-American Packet Company's office elicited the statement that there were such rumors and with probably some foundation. At the office of the North German Lloyd Line it was stated that the Continental Conference could be re-established and rates restored if the Hamburg-American Company would concede the points it stands against. The North German Lloyd has limited the use of steerage tickets bought at reduced rates to four weeks from date of issue, this being necessary because of the large number of tickets already sold. Between February 26 and March 9 the line sold 7,000 prepaid tickets.

TEACHING 50 YEARS IN CITY SCHOOLS.

TEACHING 50 YEARS IN CITY SCHOOLS.

Fifty years ago a bright-eyed young woman was appointed assistant-teacher in a little frame schoolhouse in Twenty-seventh-st., between Second and Third aves. The assistant teacher was also monitress. She sanded the floor and kept the school in order for $25 a mouth. Hor home was near Fulton Ferry and every morning she rode up town in the stage to Union Square, which was as far as the stage went, and walked the rest of the way to the school house. She was so regular that a grocery keeper near the school would wait until she passed at a quarter of nine to set his clock right.

The bright-eved young woman was Miss Caroline F. Whiting. She outlasted the frame school house, which was torn down in 1847 to make way for a brick building, that was burned down in 1859, and succeeded by Grammar School No. 14. Miss Whiting has been principal of the female department of No. 14 since it was built. It is the largest school in the city, extending through to Twenty-eighth-st., and has more than 3,000 pupils in the different departments. Peter Cooper was for many years one of its trustees, and his daughter, Mrs. Abram S. Hewitt, was one of the graduates. Some of the teachers with Miss Whiting were once her pupils. She has taught the children of many of her early scholars, and among her pupils now are the grandchildren of some of those who first attended her school.

Miss Whiting is as active now and in as good health as she was twenty years ago. She has not lost more than ten days since she began teaching. Yesterday the teachers in the school assembled to make arrangements to celebrate the golden anniversary of the time when sie began teaching. A number of ladies and gentlemen were present who graduated from No. 14, but the Reunion Committee want to get the names of as many more as they can, and would like all graduates to send their prosent addresses. Some of them are now in Europe. China and California. The reunion will be held about the middle of June.

"Maggie came to this city with me by the consent of her parents," he said to Justice Patterson.

"She is to become my wife one of these days. It is our duty as members of the Salvanion Army to visit the bad places for the purpose of doing religious work. We were out on that mission last night. Heft her at No. 98 James-st., while I went to a liquor-shop on the corner to see a man. I was gone longer than I intended and was pained to find Maggie in tears and in the custody of the officer. I certainly meant no harm to the girl."

Maggie, who is a good-looking girl, said that after Hamilton had left her the girls in the hall urged her to smoke cigarertes and drink beer. She did not yield to their wishes; she was afraid of them. It was learned from other sources that Hamilton was to have been presented yesterday with an American flag by the citizens of Paterson as a token of esteem for his services in that city. A few years ago he lived on the east side of the city, and was well known to the police. Justice Patterson held him for trial under $1,500 bail.

PAYING DEARLY FOR HIS KNOWLEDGE.
Carl Nehring was an innocent and unsuspecting immigrant when he landed at Castle Garden from the steamship Suevia on January 23, but he has learned something of "the ways that are dark, and the tricks that are vain." Carl was an easy victim to two swindlers. In teiling his story vesterday he sobbed and cried for his "Faderland." Assistant Superintendent Heinzmann and Detective Groden, at Castle Garden, comforted him by telling him that he was not the first fool to land, and that Mr. Groden would try and find the villians who would dare to swindle a greenhorn.
Carl said that two weeks ago near the Desbrosses Street Ferry he saw a kid giove on the pavement, and as he stooped to pick it up a tall man saved him the trouble, and found a "diamond ring" in one of the fingers. He went with the "tall gentlemen" to a leweller's store where a value was set upon it, and when they left the store the friend offered to sell the ring for $15, but being sorely in need of money be sold it for $3. Carl afterward learned that the ring was brass, and the solitaire a piece of glass. Then Carl was sorry he bought the ring and went to look for the "tall gentleman."

His next experience was after he advertised for employment. A man called to see him and offered him employment in a perfumery store at $8.50 a week. He was to label bottles, but his employer assured him that certain implements were necessary for the work. Carl gave him $4 to parchase the implements, and after walking a few blocks was told go to his piace of business, No. 244 Fulton-st. PAYING DEARLY FOR HIS KNOWLEDGE.

Campbell were examined briefly. Mr. Woltman was asked whether he could suggest any improvements in conducting the business of the bureau, and replied that he had no suggestions to offer. In response to questions he described the positions and duties of his former subordinates and the methods of bookkeeping. He was asked if the man who is sued the permits and received the money might not be dishonest, and replied that bank officials sometimes betrayed their trusts. The report of the Commissioners will be made to the Mayor in a few days.

REAL ESTATE SOLD BY THE CENTRAL.

The New-York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company in 1873 issued bonds aggregating $30,000,000, payable in 1903, and to secure the issue mortgaged its rolling stock, tracks and real estate in that sum. Cornelius J. and William K. Vanderblit were appointed trustees for the bondholders. When the mortgage was executed the company reserved the right to sell any part of the real estate owned by it, providing that other property of an equal value was substituted for the same. Under this agreement the company yesterday sold, with the consent of the trustees, a portion of the property which had been mortgaged to Darius G. Crosby. The plot is situated at the northeast corner of Tenth-ave, and Thirtieth-st., and was sold for $54,000. Property at the southwest corner of Eleventh-ave and Sixtieth-st. was transferred to the trustees as a substitute for that sold.

NEWS FROM THE SUBURBS. DECIDING AN OLD WILL INVALID.

DECIDING AN OLD WILL INVALID.

James Benedict died at Tarrytown, Westchester County, in 1841, leaving a large estate. A considerable portion of it consisted of real estate in and about tarrytown, which has grown valuable since his death. By his will he made his widow, Deborah Benedict, his son James M. Benedict, and his friends Zadoc Benedict and W. W. Todd his executors and trustees. He also provided that his son Theodore H. Benedict, should become one of the executors and trustees at the age of twenty-one. Two years ago, Theodore H. Beneziet was the only surviving trustee. Being advised that he alone could not make a valid conveyance of any of the real property, he p titioned the Supreme Court to appoint his sister Annie Augusta Cobb to act with him. This the courte of In Angust, 1883, Mr. Benedict sild to William H. Webb a piece of the real estate for $12,800, receiving $300 cash and the balance to be paid on November 9. At the appointed time Mr. Webb was ready with his monny, and Mr. Benedict was ready with a deed executed by himself and Mrs. Cobb as trustees of their father's will. This deed Mr. Webb refused to receive and Mr. Benedict sund him, saying that the trile conveyed by this deed was good. The Special Term and General Term of the Supreme Court sustained this view. Yesterday the Court of Appeals decided that the will was invalid and that the title which Mr. Benedict and his sister attempted to convey to Mr. Webb was invalid, and that Mr. Webb could not be compelled to take the deed and pay his money.

Everything was quiet at Police Headquarters vesterday. The Democratic counsel proposed to City Counsel Couth that a writ of certiorari be issued to-day, without argument, as he had been assured that a session of the Supreme Court would be held on March 28 at which the constitutionality of the law could be argued and a decision hastened. It is probable that this course will be followed.
